Achievement Expo of China Aerospace

Today's trip to the City Museum is really a memorable experience and this will be engraved in my mind forever.

All senior 3 students visited an exhibition themed on "Achievements of China Aerospace". First, we attended informative lectures and watched extremely exciting videos about launching rockets, which allowed us to get deeper insights into China Aerospace. Then came the highlight, experiencing thrilling and funny spacewalks in almost zero gravity.

Amazed by the outstanding achievements and touched by the spirit of China Aerospace experts, I'll apply myself to study so that I can make contributions to our country like them one day.

Shortly afterward, Principal Peters came back with 41 dollars. He announced firmly and proudly, "Guys! You've reached your garden goal!" Seeing the exact amount of money to realize the garden dream, all the students present burst into cheers. "For $ 41, you have just bought 164 bags of popcorn, we'll pop it for you right now," said one of the kids, eyes dancing with joy. However, Principal Peters shook his head, saying, "Thanks, but no need. I'm proud of you for your persistence! But may I ask what you will plant? Cabbages? Carrots or eggplants?"

"POPCORN", the cute students answered the Principal's question jokingly. Following the students' unexpected response, a stunned look froze on the principal's face. After all, how could popcorn be planted? Immediately, he got the point of students' joke. Forehead knotting in a frown, he pretended to be angry but joy sparkled inside him. He grinned at the cute students childishly, saying proudly and encouragingly, "You guys have done an amazing job! As long as you try enough, everything you want will come its way." Together, they pictured a promising plant garden of their own.
