Dear Peter,

I'm writing to inform you of a short video contest. Aimed at recording the beauty of our campus, the contest is to be held next Friday.

The short video should be related to our campus and school life. Besides, subtitles and music can be added to make it more colorful. All the short videos must be made within three minutes and in MP4 form, which should be sent to 123456789@qq.com by this Sunday.

Since you are so enthusiastic about short videos, why not have a try? Looking forward to your early reply.

Yours,
Li Hua

Suddenly he disappeared in front of my eyes. Jumping to my feet, I let out screams, "Somebody help my son!" Hardly had I yelled when a woman rushed to the stones' edge and jumped down. Following her with unsteady steps, I went down too, seeing her scooping up my son. His eyes remained closed. Having laid my son on his back, she checked his pulse and began to perform first aid. Suddenly, I saw my son opened his eyes. Indescribable delight filled my heart.

When Kevin returned to normal, I learned the woman was a nurse. "Your son just suffered a minor back injury. Don't worry," she comforted me. "It was you that saved my son," I said, tears flooding down my cheeks. She held my hands, a big smile shining from her face, and said that anyone would have done the same. We had a very pleasant chat, and I knew her name was Lisa. Her random kindness indeed made a big difference and I would follow her example.
